

The Meaning of Ice: People and Sea Ice in Three Arctic Communities

The Meaning of Ice:
People and Sea Ice in Three Arctic Communities

Dr. Shari Fox Gearheard
Research Scientist III, National Snow and Ice Data Center
University of Colorado Boulder

Sponsored by the Center for Native American and Indigenous Studies

When: Friday, September 25, 10:30 am
Where: CIRES Auditorium

Dr. Shari Fox Gearheard, a CU geographer, researcher, and long-time Arctic resident, will discuss Inuit culture, oral history, and ways of knowing sea ice based on her collaborative work with Inuit hunters and Elders on Baffin Island. At a time of tremendous change in the Arctic, Inuit provide important understanding not only of the Arctic environment itself, but of the human place within it. The talk is based on the recently published award-winning book, The Meaning of Ice, edited by Gearheard with a team of over 40 Inuit from around the Arctic.

1 hour lecture with light refreshments to follow
